

Flannah Clark was born in Northampton near Hullifax, Dec^r 1727 and in the year 43 she heard the Gospel preached, along with her Sister after some time our Saviour laid hold on her heart in such a manner, that she had a great desier to be long to the Society, but being of a bashfull disposition, she could not say much for her Self, thinking herself not worthy of such a favour but being in courage by her S^r she however took courage and was soon received into the Society at Hullifax by Bro. Horn; in y^e Year 48 she came to Live at Clokeston Concomy, where she lived was some time before she could rightly settle, after terwards, she growing more acquainted with our Saviour and grew more satisfied in the year 50. She removed to with the rest of the S^{rs} to Tysohall, where she got a great Longing and desier to be received into the Congregation, which was granted to her Jan^y 12.
1752, the Day after she was Rec^d, the S^r asked her why she was in such a hurry to go to grace hall, the day that she was Recived, she being always used to be one of the Last, O said she I had some thing in my mind, I thought perhaps I shall be recieved, therefore I did not like to be so late, I had a feeling of it, but, I did not like to tell any body of it, When the Sisters Entered the Choir-hous, she with some others was ordered to Live in prudsey Town, which grieved her very much, and she said, she could not rest till she came to Live in the Choir-hous July 5th 53. She became a Candidat for the Sacrament 5th of Nov. in the same year she was Confirmed, and Dec^r 5th 53 she partook of the holy Sacrament, for the first time, this proved with a great bless to her, from this time forward she grew much more lively and chearfull then ever, she had been before, once as she was going to the Meeting she fell and hurt her knee, her Father being a Doctor she went to stay there a while, to see if she could be cured but while she was there, she was much dissatisfied and wanted to be at home again, in the mean time the Prudsey Concomy came to Live in the Choir-hous her S^r going to see her, she asked her if they was moved, she told her Yes, then said she were is my bed and the rest of my things, are they in the Choir-hous? she answered her that her bed was in the Sleep-hall, ^{then} rejoiced her very much and she said I am satisfied, if I only had the favour to be in the House, She could not be satisfied to stay any longer with her father but hastened to come home, and entered her father's house with much pleasure, ever since she got that hurt in her knee, she has been sickly, so that we could plainly see that she was in a declining way, ~~time that time nothing~~ during this her sickness, nothing has happened to disturb her in her powers of grace, but she has gone on in triumph, and Child Manner, about Christmas 1791. She got a bad cough, and it seems as if it would turn to a consumption. Last year her father to visit her father, he asked her what she thought of him about her, she said I have not much to wish for presently, perhaps again I shall want it more than now, she was very still and complained but little but when she by degrees grew worse, she had mind to try if anything could be of service to her, she then sent to her father but he said it would be to no purpose, however she took something which gave her ease for a short time, but however it was very deserv-able, that her end drew near, this she believed herself and at first she took it very near to heart, that she had not spent her time in such a tender connection with the men of sorrows as she could have wished, she spoke of to her sister, but however, said she,

He! Loves me dearly, and has patience with me, about the middle of June, she took to her sick-room, when she was asked if she should not like to be well again she answered, No! I will rather go to our Saviour's side she was in the sick-room, the next once it to the hall to the holy Sacrament, when she came home again, she was so ill that we thought she would have gone home, but in a little time she recovered again, when she said I am exceedingly glad that I have enjoyed it once more with the congregation, for it is the last time, she was exceedingly light and cheerful, and said I can express in words what I have enjoyed by the holy Sacrament, my heart is so refreshed that it has made me quite strong, yet my longing and desire is, to go to him who has done so much for me, O I wish that that happy time may soon come, she was thro her whole sickness Exceeding patient and when any one told her that she looked very ill I said she said to be ill, but it is no matter, I will bear it as well as I can, it will soon be over then I shall be quite well, About a month ago her three Sisters gave her a painful dose of physic, at which she was very much delighted, this was the last time of her coming out of the sick-room, when she was spoke to for the Sacrament the last time, she expressed her longing desire for it, I said she I would gladly have been with our Saviour before; his time will however be the last, I shall now soon be with our Saviour, the fourth of this month, she partook of the holy Sacrament, with such a longing and eager heart, that she could scarcely wait till the time came, when she got the bread into her hands it cant be expressed in words, how eager she was, as also when she took the cup, it seems as tho she thought it was the last time that I shall enjoy it here, I will now take my fill, a few days before her departure her cough stopped, and she grew weaker, the night before her departure she kept a very hearty talk with the sister who watched with her, and thanked her for all that which she had done for her, she now altered and we found see that her hour of departure draws nigh, she called out very often for our Saviour to fetch her, and to let her stay so long here, she would often stretch out her arms as if she hoped at some time, saying O he is my dear Saviour, He is my dear Saviour, O come my dear Saviour, O come to fetch me, take me into thy arms, then she said to her 3^d Sister I am satisfied! she said with that satisfaction? she answered with our Saviour, he lets me feel his tender heart, and how much he loves me, ten times more than I could expect? she then feeling her self just ready for going, she sent for 3^d Dorcy, she thinking them not quite enough, cried out pray come soon

When they came they began to sing some Verses suitable there to, but she however recovered again and lay quite still, only desiring the Sisters to pray our Saviour that he would soon fetch her which happened, about half an hour past eleven in the the fore noon, on the eleventh instant when her Saul took flight into the Armes of her Eternal Bridegroom, under those words at the End of all her Need, be her Unction wounds so red; grant her to Lean unshaken &c. will she thy thy gentle Visage &c. kiss her upon the cheek, Open Armes take her,

Under which words she received the blessing of her Choir, And she received the Last Kiss with such an inexpressable feeling, and on her Countenance was plainly to be seen the sweet impression of the Last Kiss, so that all around her could have wish for that blest Lot
